USA vs. RUSSIA: The U.S. and Russia are meeting for the sixth time in IIHF World Women's Championship history. In the five previous meetings, Team USA holds the 5-0-0-0 advantage, having outscored the Russians by a combined total of 47-3. All but one of the games between the two teams have come in the preliminary round (in 2001, the teams met in the semifinals), with the last matchup taking place on April 6, 2009, when the U.S. garnered an 8-0 victory. Overall in the event, Team USA holds a 47-1-4-8-1 record (W-OTW-OTL-L-T), with three gold medals and nine silvers. Meanwhile Russia has previously participated nine times, has a 16-0-0-24-2 mark and one bronze medal (2001). At the last world championship, the United States captured the gold medal with a 4-0-0-1 record, while Russia finished fifth with a 2-0-0-2 mark. The two teams also met at the 2010 Olympic Winter Games on Feb. 16, 2010, when the U.S. won by a 13-0 score. Overall, dating back to the teams' first meeting in 1999, the U.S. and Russia have played 12 times and the Americans have won all 12 contests. In those 12 games, the U.S. outscored the Russians, 110-3.

THE WORLD WOMEN'S CHAMPIONSHIP: The IIHF World Women's Championship is being held for the 13th time since its inception in 1990. Since 1999, it has been run on an annual basis, with the exception of Olympic years (2002, 2006, 2010) and 2003, when the event was canceled due to SARS virus concerns. This year marks the first time that Switzerland has hosted the event - Canada has hosted five times, Finland has hosted three times, the U.S. has hosted twice and China and Sweden have each hosted once. For the preliminary round, Group A (No. 1 United States, No. 4 Sweden, No. 5 Russia, No. 8 Slovakia) is based at Hallenstadion in Zurich, while Group B (No. 2 Canada, No. 3 Finland, No. 6 Kazakhstan, No. 7 Switzerland) is stationed at Deutweg Rink in Winterthur. The U.S. and Sweden will also play one game in Winterthur (April 20). From there, the playoff and medal rounds will take place in Zurich, with the relegation round set for Winterthur. Canada has won the championship on nine occasions (1990, 1992, 1994, 1997, 1999-2001, 2004, 2007), while the U.S. has captured the title the other three years (2005, 2008-09). Team USA has only lost once to a team other than Canada in the world championship, which happened in 2008 to Finland in overtime of the round-robin playoff round (the U.S. went on to win the gold medal that year).

FORMAT: Each team plays three round-robin games within its group. The top finishing team in each group advances directly to the semifinals, while the second- and third-place teams play crossover quarterfinal games. The winners of the two quarterfinals move on to the semifinals. The winning teams in the semifinals play for the gold medal, while the losing teams play for the bronze.

ALSO IN ACTION: The U.S. Men's National Under-18 Team is also in action, playing in the 2011 IIHF World Men's U18 Championship in Germany. Similar to the women, the men's U18 team is also looking for a world championship three-peat. Off to a 3-0-0-0 start, the squad next faces Germany tomorrow (April 19) at 7:30 p.m. (1:30 p.m. EDT).

RECAPPING THE 2009 WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP: After outscoring Japan and Russia by a total of 15-0 in the preliminary round, Team USA earned the top spot in its group for the qualifying round. The U.S. defeated Finland, 7-0, in its first qualifying-round game and, in the process, clinched a spot in the gold-medal game against Canada for the 12th consecutive year. Team USA lost its qualifying-round matchup against Canada, but topped the Canadians in the gold-medal game, 4-1, to claim its second consecutive world championship. With the victory, the U.S. earned the No. 1 world ranking for the first time since the system was introduced in 2004.

FAMILIAR FACES: All 21 players have skated in at least one international event for Team USA. The squad features 15 Olympians, including 14 players returning from the gold medal-winning 2009 U.S. Women's National Team. Fifteen of the players skated in the 2010 Women's Four Nations Cup last November. Two forwards - Jen Schoullis and Kelley Steadman - are making their National Team debuts at the senior level. An additional five players will be playing in their first IIHF World Women's Championship, including goaltender Brianne McLaughlin, defensemen Josephine Pucci and Anne Schleper, and forwards Kendall Coyne and Brianna Decker. The only two who have not competed in either an Olympics, World Championship or World U18 Championship are Pucci, who skated in the 2010 Women's Four Nations Cup, and Schoullis, who played in the 2010 Under-22 Series.

POTTER'S CAPTAINCY: Jenny Potter is serving as Team USA's captain again after doing so at the 2010 Women's Four Nations Cup. She has played in four Olympics and has suited up in the USA sweater 190 times since 1997. She was selected as USA Hockey's Bob Allen Women's Player of the Year in 2010 after leading the U.S. to the Olympic silver medal with a team-best 11 points (6-5) while serving as alternate captain. She is competing in her ninth world championship.

SUCCESS ON THE WORLD STAGE: The U.S. Women's National Program has enjoyed much success in recent years. U.S. teams have won three of the last four IIHF World Women's Championships (2005, 2008-09), as well as three of the first four IIHF World Women's U18 Championships (2008-09, 2011).

ABOUT ZURICH: Zurich is the largest city in Switzerland. It is located in central Switzerland at the northwestern tip of Lake Zurich. While the municipality itself has approximately 380,500 inhabitants, the Zurich metropolitan area is an urbanised area of international importance constituted by a population of nearly two million people. The city has previously hosted the IIHF World Men's Championship on four occasions - 1939, 1953, 1998 and 2009.

NEXT UP IN BURLINGTON: The United States is hosting the 2012 IIHF World Women's Championship in Burlington, Vt., at the University of Vermont. It will mark the third time the event has been set in the U.S., after it was hosted in Lake Placid, N.Y., in 1994 and Minneapolis in 2001.

MILESTONES

- Seven players are skating in their first IIHF World Women's Championship, including goaltender Brianne McLaughlin, defensemen Josephine Pucci and Anne Schleper, and forwards Kendall Coyne, Brianna Decker, Jen Schoullis and Kelley Steadman.
- Jenny Potter is on the verge of her 100th goal for Team USA - she currently stands at 96. She will become the sixth player in U.S. history to reach the 100-goal plateau (Cammi Granato-186, Katie King-146, Natalie Darwitz-117, Karen Bye-110, Krissy Wendell-105).
- Caitlin Cahow will be playing in her 100th game for Team USA. She currently stands at 99. Meanwhile, Julie Chu will soon play in her 200th game for Team USA. She currently stands at 197.
- Josephine Pucci scored her first U.S. goal in Team USA's 5-0 win over Slovakia on April 17.
- Jen Schoullis and Kelley Steadman are making their U.S. senior-team debuts. Schoullis and Steadman join Anne Schleper in looking for their first senior-team goals.

TEAM NOTES

UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT: The U.S. Women's National Program is under new management with Reagan Carey as USA Hockey's director of women's hockey. Last fall, she replaced Michele Amidon, who had served in the role for four years before shifting to take a position as a regional manager for USA Hockey's American Development Model. Carey had been working for the National Hockey League's Atlanta Thrashers for the nine years and is a graduate of Colby College, where she played hockey for four years.

VETERAN EXPERIENCE: Fourteen members of Team USA have already competed in an IIHF World Women's Championship, including 12 who were part of the championship-winning teams in both 2008 and 2009 (Monique Lamoureux-Kolls and Jocelyne Lamoureux did not play in the 2008 world championship). The players combine for 51 world championship appearances, led by Angela Ruggiero, who is playing in the tournament for the 10th time.

SPANNING GENERATIONS: The average age of Team USA is 22.4 years old. Kendall Coyne is the youngest at 18, while Jenny Potter is the oldest at 32.

Coyne is finishing a post-graduate year at Berkshire School (prep school), while Potter is a graduate of the University of Minnesota Duluth and has two children, ages 4 and 10.

CWHL: Six members of Team USA spent the 2010-11 season with teams in the newly restructured Canadian Women's Hockey League. Kacey Bellamy, Caitlin Cahow and Angela Ruggiero played for the Boston Blades, while Julie Chu skated for the Montreal Stars, Molly Engstrom played for the Brampton Thunder and Brianne McLaughlin was rostered with the Burlington Barracudas. Chu and the Montreal Stars captured the 2011 Clarkson Cup Championship.

UNIVERSITY LIFE: Eleven players on the U.S. team played NCAA Division I women's hockey in 2010-11, while another nine have already completed their NCAA playing careers and one is still NCAA eligible (Kendall Coyne - committed to Northeastern University for 2011-12).

NATIONAL TITLES: Brianna Decker, Meghan Duggan and Hilary Knight are all hot off winning the NCAA title with the University of Wisconsin last month. In total, six members of Team USA have won collegiate national championships, led by Duggan (2007, 2009, 2011) and Jessie Vetter (2006, 2007, 2009), who each have three championships with Wisconsin. Knight was also on hand for Wisconsin's championship in 2009 alongside Duggan and Vetter. Meanwhile, Jenny Potter was an NCAA champion with the University of Minnesota Duluth in 2003 and Angela Ruggiero captured the national title with Harvard University in 1999.

PLAYER/COACHES: Julie Chu is currently an assistant coach for the Union College women's ice hockey team (she previously spent 2007-08 as an assistant coach for the University of Minnesota Duluth) and Jessie Vetter serves as the director of hockey for Athletic Republic and coaches the Madison Capitols 19U girls' team. Meanwhile, Kacey Bellamy helped with her former college team - the University of New Hampshire - during the 2010-11 season.

A SEASON TO REMEMBER: Meghan Duggan had a memorable senior season at the University of Wisconsin. In addition to captaining the Badgers to the Western Collegiate Hockey Association regular-season and tournament championships, she helped the team earn the overall No. 1 seed heading into the NCAA tournament and eventually led the squad to the national championship. Meanwhile, she was named the WCHA Player of the Year, earned First Team All-America honors, was selected as the MVP of the NCAA Women's Frozen Four and was chosen as the recipient of the 2011 Patty Kazmaier Memorial Award as the top player in NCAA Division I women's ice hockey.

TOP HONORS: This year's recipient Meghan Duggan makes four current members of Team USA who have won the Patty Kazmaier Memorial Award as the top player in NCAA Division I women's ice hockey. Jessie Vetter took home the trophy in 2009, while Julie Chu won the award in 2007 and Angela Ruggiero captured the prize in 2004. Caitlin Cahow, Molly Engstrom, Hilary Knight, Monique Lamoureux-Kolls, Jenny Potter, Molly Schaus and Kelli Stack were all previously top-10 or top-three finalists for the award.

INTERNATIONAL COMMUNITY: During the 2010 Olympic Winter Games, Angela Ruggiero was voted to become a member of the International Olympic Committee Athletes' Commission. She became only the third IOC member from the United States on the board and was thereafter appointed to the 11-member IOC Evaluation Commission that recently inspected the three cities competing to host the 2018 Olympic Winter Games.

LAWYER IN THE MIX: Caitlin Cahow is currently enrolled in her first year at the Boston College Law School. She lives in Cambridge, Mass., and trains with both the Boston Blades (CWHL) and Team USA. She earned her bachelor's degree in social/biological anthropology from Harvard University in 2008.

FAMILY AFFAIR: Jenny Potter is the lone mother on the U.S. roster. She has a daughter, Madison "Maddy," who is 10 years old; and a son, Cullen, who is four. Her father, Dwayne Schmidgall, is the founder and coach of the Minnesota Whitecaps in the Western Women's Hockey League where Potter plays. Her husband, Rob, is also a Whitecaps' coach and helps Potter on a day-to-day basis on the ice and in the weight room. He is also the coach for the Coon Rapids (Minn.) High School girls' team. Potter and her husband team up for Potter's Pure Hockey, a series of training camps and sessions for hockey players of all ages.

ALL IN THE FAMILY: Twin sisters Jocelyne Lamoureux and Monique Lamoureux-Kolls are the first set of twins (or sisters) in the U.S. Women's National Program. They are also teammates at the University of North Dakota and come from a hockey family. Their brother, Jean-Philippe, currently plays for the American Hockey League's Abbotsford Heat. He previously played hockey for North Dakota and for Team USA at the 2004 Viking Cup. Meanwhile, another brother, Jacques, recently completed his hockey career at the Air Force Academy and another, Pierre-Paul, is the manager for the North Dakota men's hockey team. Finally, their youngest brother, Mario, recently completed his second season on the North Dakota hockey team and played for Team USA at the 2006 Viking Cup, and their father, Jean-Pierre, played hockey for North Dakota (1979-82).

CLOSE KNIT: Julie Chu is very close with her family, which lives in Fairfield, Conn. Her mother is half Chinese and half Puerto Rican and her father is from Hong Kong, and they travel to nearly every tournament their daughter plays in, no matter what part of the world. Chu, her parents and her sister and brother all have matching tattoos of the Olympic rings, along with Chu's number 13.

UP NEXT: Next on the agenda for the U.S. Women's National Program is the USA Hockey Women's Summer Training Camp, set for early June in Colorado Springs, Colo.

THE STONE FILE

Katey Stone, head women's ice hockey coach at Harvard University, returned to the U.S. bench after having been involved with the U.S. Women's National Program extensively since 2006.

Prior to the 2010-11 season, Stone most recently served as the head coach of the U.S. Women's Select Team at the 2008 Women's Four Nations Cup. There, Team USA captured the tournament title for the first time since 2003. Prior to that, Stone led the U.S. to the gold medal at the first-ever International Ice Hockey Federation World Women's U18 Championship in January 2008. She also coached the U.S. Women's Under-18 Select Team at the 2007 Under-18 Series and the U.S. Women's Under-22 Select Team at the 2006 Under-22 Series against Canada.

Stone is in her fifth season of involvement in the coaching curriculum and player selection for the U.S. Women's National Program, spending time at the Women's National Festival, Women's Winter Training Camp and the USA Hockey Girls' Select Player Development Camps. In addition, she served as an assistant coach with the 1996 U.S. Women's Select Team for a three-game exhibition series against Sweden.

Along with her accomplishments on the international stage, Stone is the winningest coach in the history of women's hockey at Harvard and one of the most successful coaches ever in the women's collegiate game. Stone recently completed her 17th season behind the Harvard bench with 356 victories, which is tops among NCAA Division I coaches.

Stone has led the Crimson to a 356-155-31 (.685) record during her tenure, which included the 1999 American Women's Collegiate Hockey Alliance national championship, three straight appearances in the NCAA championship game (2003, 2004, 2005), eight NCAA tournament appearances in the event's 11-year history, six ECAC Hockey regular-season titles, five ECAC Hockey tournament championships, five Ivy League titles and 10 Beanpot championships.

In addition to the team's success under Stone, she has coached some of the best individual talent in the sport of women's hockey. In 17 years at Harvard, Stone has coached nine Olympians and six of the 13 winners of the Patty Kazmaier Memorial Award, presented annually to the top player in NCAA Division I women's ice hockey.

Stone continues to be an integral voice in the sport of women's hockey. She is a member of the NCAA Championship committee and has served multiple tenures on the Patty Kazmaier Memorial Award Selection Committee, and previously served as a member of the NCAA rules committee and president of the American Women's Hockey Coaches Association.

Stone graduated from the University of New Hampshire in 1989 with a bachelor's degree in physical education. She was a captain and four-year letterwinner in both hockey and lacrosse for the Wildcats. Stone helped the hockey team win ECAC championships in 1986 and 1987 and the lacrosse team capture an NCAA title in 1985. She earned All-ECAC honors in hockey and was a two-time All-America selection in lacrosse.

Before coaching at Harvard, Stone served as assistant athletic director and coach at Tabor Academy (Mass.) and had coaching stints at Northfield Mount Hermon School (Mass.) and Phillips Exeter Academy (N.H.).

Joining Stone behind the bench as assistant coaches are Mark Hudak, head women's ice hockey coach at Dartmouth College, and Hilary Witt, assistant women's ice hockey coach at Northeastern University. In addition, Robb Stauber is serving as the goalie coach and Misha Donskov is the skill development coach and recruiting specialist.
