

A&M CONSOLIDATED ATHLETIC PHILOSOPHY:

Athletics is an integral part of our secondary education process. The development of "school spirit" is one of the most important contributions an athletic program can make toward a successful and smooth operation of a school. Meaningful participation returns many dividends, not the least of which is the making of a lasting friendship and the elimination of prejudices. The team spirit does remarkable things for participants and observers alike.

All teams from AMCHS and AMCMS will: 1) Play Fast 2) Play Hard 3) Play Physical 4) Play with a lot of class

Athletics provides ways in which our young people can develop into responsible men and women. Participation in athletics means more than competition between two individuals or two teams. It teaches fair play, sportsmanship, understanding, appreciation of teamwork, and the fact that hard work leads toward success. Preparation in athletics develops the bodies and minds of students to greater levels of efficiency. It gives self-confidence and a sense of accomplishment. Leadership qualities are discovered and developed that is necessary in our community and nation.
