Get that Northland feeling!

Winning is a tradition at Northland. It's a tradition we build into every stick.

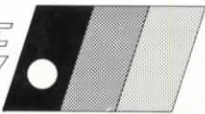

Pick up a Northland. Feel the stick that has been raised in victory more than any other. Feel the spirit...the goals, the assists (maybe even the hat trick).

Feel the stick that's been used by more than half of the top pros who have more than 300 career goals. The winning feeling. The Northland feeling!

To: All Players and Fans of the Schoolboy Hockey Tournament

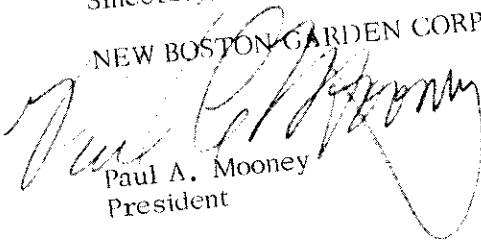

On behalf of the Boston Garden, please accept our welcome to the 1978 Eastern Massachusetts Schoolboy Hockey Tournament.

The enthusiasm generated by the schoolboy players is overwhelming and the support shown by the schools is equally as amazing. It is a tremendous tribute to high school athletics.

Congratulations to all of the participating high schools and our thanks to all of the fans for their continued support.

Sincerely,

NEW BOSTON GARDEN CORPORATION

ELEVENTH ANNUAL Eastern Massachusetts High School Hockey Tournament

LOFTS J.
McGUIRE
TOURNAMENT

By STEVE HARRIS
Boston Herald American

A year ago, after Billerica salted away its third consecutive state Division 2 title, a rumor circulated that the Indians would meet Matignon, the Division 1 champ. A dream game it would have been, yet there was no way such a game could have been played.

But a realignment this year assures there will be little or no doubt who has the top team in Eastern Mass. The three best leagues in Division 2 — the Merrimack Valley Conference, Old Colony League and Dual County League — have been elevated to Division 1.

It's a move that's been talked about since the two-division tourney was instituted in 1972 and one which makes sense in a number of ways.

Competitively, the three leagues have reached parity with most Division 1 leagues. Year in and year out, the top Division 2 teams — Billerica, Acton-Boxboro, Canton, Wayland and others — would be an even match for the best teams in the higher group. So why not let the best fight it out?

Numerically, the realignment nearly balances the two divisions. There are now 10 Division 1 leagues and 12 in Division 2.

"The idea was to balance off the tournaments as much as we could," said veteran hockey tournament director Lofts (Mickey) McGuire. "The last few years it was getting so we had 18 to 25 teams qualifying in Division 1 and 30 to 35 in Division 2.

"After looking at how many teams were qualifying from each league, the committee felt these three leagues could compete in the higher division and the move would be beneficial to the overall tournament.

"We had complaints from teams in each league, but not to any degree. Maybe one team in each league. The whole thing is it will certainly make for better competition. I think we'll see that some of these Division 2 teams will more than hold their own."

For Billerica coach Roger Richard, it just means another challenge for the state's most successful program. The Indians boast a 71-3 record over the last three years, and don't bet against them breezing through Division 1 as easily as they have through 2.

"As far as I'm concerned," said Richard, "I'm not displeased with the move. I thought it was about time. If we win it this year, we're just going to have to work harder. It's not going to be as easy as last time."

TOURNEY TOPICS — The effects of The Blizzard of '78 are still with us, but local schoolboy hockey weathered the storm reasonably well. Many teams did have to play three or four games during the February vacation, but McGuire and his committee managed to organize the tourney field routinely. "The storm didn't really bother us at all," said McGuire. "But if we were still playing all our games at the Boston Arena, the storm would have crippled us. Using the six different sites, though, we had some flexibility."

Quickie Quiz: How's your memory about past tourneys? Here are a few questions that should be a snap for any true fan.

1. An easy one to start. In last year's Division 1 final, this high-scoring pair had third period goals just 14 seconds apart to give Matignon the title.

2. Too easy? How about this . . . In 1968, a part-time regular season goalie backstopped unheralded Arlington to the title, with victories over Needham, Melrose and Norwood. Name the goalie, now a famous radio personality.

3. This Melrose defenseman and future Bruin possessed a legendary slap shot, yet scored just one goal in the 1962 tourney. Name him and his nickname.

4. Here's a little harder one . . . Name the 14-year-old freshman goalie who had back-to-back 1-0 shutouts over Arlington and Norwood in the 1965 semis and final to give Walpole the championship.

5. The star of that Norwood team, incidentally, went on to professional stardom — but not in hockey. Name him.

6. In one of the great comebacks in tourney history, South Boston scored seven goals in a nine-minute span in the 1974 semis. Name the Southie star — now playing at Michigan State — who had three of the goals.

7. All-time tourney great Robbie Ftorek led one of the most one-sided victories ever in 1970 over Malden Catholic. Do you remember the score and Ftorek's contribution?

8. If you handled that one easily, you'll probably have no trouble naming the other members of Ftorek's line, all of which made the all-tourney team. (See below for answers).

Few men, if any, know as much about Massachusetts high school hockey as Boston College assistant coach Steve Cedorchuk. The former Boston Tech great agreed to stick his neck out — a bit — and name his tourney favorites. In Division 1, Steve tabs Burlington the team to beat. ("They're the deepest. They really don't have any weakness"). After the Red Devils, it's Don Bosco ("Two super lines and great rushing defensemen.") and Billerica, despite their two regular season losses to Burlington. ("They were missing some key players. If they meet again, it's an even game.") For a darkhorse, Cedorchuk likes Natick. In Division 2, he leans toward North Reading, with Canton and Barnstable next.

Asked to assess the best players,

Steve picks the following "all-tourney" team: up front, Burlington's Jeff Cowles, Don Bosco's Billy O'Dwyer and Brian O'Connor of Arlington. On defense, he likes Billerica's fine senior backline pair, Tom Mulligan and Jeff Smith. And in goal, it's either Arlington's Joe Hurley or Doug Ellis of Burlington.

Ron Marcellus of Somerset is the new Mass. career scoring champ. The husky (6-foot-1, 180-pound) Marcellus, who'll attend Bowdoin next year, had 34 goals and 35 assists this year for a four-year total of 121 goals and 118 assists. His 239 points topped the record of 228 set in 1976 by Randy Millen of Oliver Ames . . . A star of the horizon is 14-year-old sophomore Danny Morgan of Winthrop. His 23 goals for the Northeastern Conference champs were the best in the league . . . East Boston's Paul Maggio was the area's top goalscorer, potting 48 while leading Eastie to the Boston Conference Division 2 crown. His linemates Mike and Mark Cambria were no slouches either, with 33 and 21 goals respectively . . . And oh yes, the quiz answers — 1. Everyone knows it was Mark Fidler and Billy Cotter, now teammates at BU. 2. None other than former Harvard great Joe Bertagna, now a WMEX color man on Crimson broadcasts. 3. Why, Paul "The Shot" Hurley, of course. 4. The auspicious debut was by Kevin Woods. 5. Richie Hebner, now a Phillies infielder. 6. Kevin Coughlin. 7. Ftorek figured in nine of the Rockets 11 goals in the 11-1 victory over MC. He had two goals and seven assists. 8. Ftorek centered the line, with Tom Parlato on the left, and Steve Dagdigian on the right.

M. S. S. P. A.

Massachusetts Secondary School Principals Association

The Massachusetts Secondary School Principals Association is composed of heads of the Commonwealth public and Catholic secondary schools.

M.S.S.P.A. is sponsor of the Eastern Massachusetts-State Hockey Tournament held at Boston Garden on March 8, 9, 10, 11, 13, 15, 20.

Besides the hockey tournament, the responsibility for other types of competition includes cross-country and soccer in the fall, basketball, indoor track, wrestling, swimming, and gymnastics as well as hockey during the winter and baseball, outdoor track, tennis and golf in the spring.

Responsibility extends to the regulation of all sports eligibility, all-star and other non-season competitions as well as to the many other facets of athletics.

Until the M.S.S.P.A. took over regulation and operation of multiple school athletic events in Massachusetts, the situation approached near chaos. Everybody and anybody were running post-season games and tournaments. Seasons overlapped and conflicted. In general there was mass confusion.

The M.S.S.P.A. took over, organized and installed rules and regulations. School events were run by school people. Athletes had to be school students in good standing in their marks and citizenship. The M.S.S.P.A. sports credo is that athletics are a privilege, not just inherited.

M.S.S.P.A. is, however, much more than an athletic organization.

That can be deduced from its other committees which far outnumber those concerned with athletics, all under direction of the Executive Board.

The committees are Academic Affairs, Educational Policies, Music, Drama, Forensics and Debating; Citizenship, State High School Equivalency, Professional Standards, Legislative, Science Fair, Officials Fees, Scholarship, National Honor Society, School and College Relations, External Testing, N.E. Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, Student Council as well as discussion groups.

Thus it is apparent that everything about everything pertaining to secondary schools in Massachusetts is the interest of M.S.S.P.A.

However, sports led to the formation of the M.S.S.P.A. which took the initiative and brought order out of chaos.

This is an organization of voluntary members, a democratic and permissive body operated with democratic representation across the state and parliamentary procedures whose members abide by the regulations of the organization through their own initiative in membership.

The income from tournaments such as this Boston Garden competition, after the competing schools are reimbursed for expenses in keeping with a policy that no school shall suffer financially from such competition, cover expenses of the so-called 'loser' sports like cross country, indoor and outdoor state track meets and competitions in soccer, swimming and wrestling as well as those in golf, tennis and baseball.

It goes, too, into an annual scholarship fund distributed proportionately to qualifying students throughout the Commonwealth and for science fair and festivals in music and drama as well as other programs which benefit students — male and female — in the state's secondary schools.

The M.S.S.P.A. is the Watchdog of school sports and the Guardian of school academics.

It also is the staunch friend of school students.

Memories . . .

A heads-up approach to protection.

With hockey safety becoming more important with each passing game, Northland believes you should know what you're getting into when you buy a helmet and face mask.

For your own protection.

Have you ever seen a two-piece turtle?

Some hockey helmets come in two pieces held together by thin bolts or rivets. That's so they can be "adjusted" to fit. Problem is, they only "adjust" forward and back. They don't "adjust" on the sides where you need a snug fit, too. Your head comes in one piece, so should your helmet.

The helmet Stan Mikita helped design.

It's in one piece, like a football helmet. Or a turtle's shell. It can't come apart if you're dumped headlong into the boards, or split in two if you happen to bang the pipe. Hockey great Stan Mikita could have had any helmet he wanted, built anyway he wanted it. He had to design his own. And it's the same one he and other top pros wear today.

*Snap-In, tinted GLARE-GARD™ or WIRE-GARD™ inserts and other mask models available.

Insure your face.

With face masks becoming mandatory, you should also know how to select the right mask. First, you need protection against pucks and sticks.

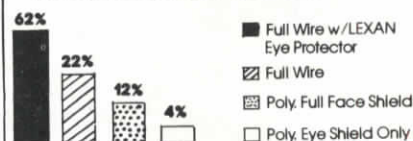

Second, you need unobstructed, optically-clear vision. Period.

Our new Northland MAXI-GARD™ face mask gives you the best of both worlds. It combines the positive protective qualities of tempered wire with the zero penetration and full vision benefits of LEXAN.® Unlike full polycarbonate shields, our snap-in eye protector insert doesn't fog up. And you can easily remove it from the mask after the game, so it won't get scratched in your equipment bag.

We put our money where your face is, too. Behind every Northland face mask, there's a $5000 comprehensive insurance policy.

State-of-the-art football helmet suspension.

Northland Stan Mikita helmets use the proven 12-point safety suspension principle combined with shock-absorbing padding. It sits snugly on your head without side wobble. Fully padded hangers protect your ears and give you a really comfortable fit.

You just can't buy a better helmet. It costs a little more, but then, how much is your head worth?
