Dear Aztec Baseball Families,

Esperanza High School is excited to announce the hiring of Jason Secoda, as our new Head Baseball Coach. We have begun the hiring process of Coach Secoda and look forward to officially having him on board as soon as possible. Coach Secoda brings with him a wealth of baseball knowledge and experience, along with a passion for connecting with student athletes and helping them grow as both baseball players, students and young men. We look forward to the 2020-2021 season and continuing the Aztec tradition of excellence.

Having been involved in baseball his entire adult life, Jason brings a wealth of knowledge to the Aztec program. Jason attended California State University, Los Angeles where he earned Division II Academic All-American Honorable Mention honors. In 1995, he was drafted by the Chicago White Sox in the 9th round. Jason had a 9 year professional playing career. During that time he played for the Chicago White Sox, Florida Marlins and hometown Anaheim Angels.

Coach Secoda is ecstatic about the opportunity to lead the Aztec baseball program. About his new position, Coach Secoda stated, "Our program's history is as successful as any in the area. We need to embrace the tradition of our past, and with your help, rebuild and continue its future success. I look forward to guiding Esperanza Baseball into the future."

Coach Secoda will be reaching out soon to parents and players to discuss upcoming meetings and next steps of the program.

Sincerely,

Matt Slevcove
