

Coaching the freshman squad's wide receivers is James Tomas, who has been an active part of the Horizon coaching staff since 2014. Players and parents will recognize him as the head of the Junior Huskies football program, playing a vital role in delivering well-prepared athletes to the high school field from 2012 through the current season; a point of pride is having coached the Junior Huskies to victory in the NYS championships three times. Tomas's own background in a range of high school sports (having lettered in basketball, football, and track and field) provide him with the skills necessary to work with young players, instilling a love of sports and the will to strive for excellence. A graduate of Garfield High School (Garfield, NJ), Tomas also attended Florida State University and Monmouth College (NJ), and moved into the coaching scene to work with special teams and offense—he was proud to share the field with his son Jacob, who played for Horizon from 2014–2017. Aside from his coaching and family time, Coach Tomas is an avid golfer and likes a good game of pick-up basketball.
